

Confederate Hills Recreation Center—Highland Springs, Virginia

"The adaptive use of this 1925 Locomotive Club breathed new life into a rundown structure. The removal of various additions which had been attached to the building over the years allowed the building's distinctive gables to direct the design of the renovated community center."

Guernsey Tingle Architects

Confederate Hills Recreation Center, Highland Springs, Virginia (Henrico County). The project consisted of a complete interior and exterior renovation of the old Confederate Hills Country Club Building for the County of Henrico. The Architect for this project was Guernsey Tingle Architects from Williamsburg, Virginia.

